Aerotek joins REC's Engineering & Technical Sector Group

Wokingham, Berkshire – 12th June 2009 – Aerotek has announced it has joined the Recruitment and Employment Confederation's Engineering & Technical Sector Group. The group represents recruitment firms that deal in all types of engineering such as civil, electrical and mechanical. Membership in the group will allow Aerotek to take a lead in championing best practices and developing its reputation within the engineering and technical industries. In addition Aerotek is looking to take a lead role in raising industry recruitment standards and influence government in support of the industry.

“Joining the REC's Engineering & Technical Sector Group is a significant step in our growth strategy and increases the awareness of our brand,” said Dominic Tallent, Aerotek's Strategic Account Director. “This membership opens potential new sales and marketing opportunities for accessing new customers and candidates.”

The REC is the representative body for the United Kingdom's £27 billion private recruitment and staffing industry and has more than 8,000 corporate members comprising agencies and businesses from all sectors and 6,000 individual members made up of recruitment consultants and other industry professionals.
